SCS SPRING MEETING, FEBRUARY 16, 2012

New Developments in Analytical Chemistry

University of Geneva, Uni Mail - 40, bd du Pont-d'Arve, 1211 Genève 4, 09.30–17.30

The SCS Spring Meeting 2012 covers a wide range of analytical chemistry topics and provides the latest developments on the market. The program includes the following lectures:

Prof. Albert Heck, Utrecht University, The Netherlands
'Development and implementation of innovative mass spectrometric methods for the more efficient and detailed characterization of protein and other biomolecules in relation to their biological function'

Prof. Nicolai Cramer, EPFL
Winner of the SCS Werner Prize 2012
'Metal catalyzed C–C and C–H activation reactions and their application in organic synthesis'

Prof. L. Ferguson, Duke University, USA
'From nanomaterials to non-target analysis: New challenges for environmental analytical chemistry'

Prof. Ron Heeren, FOM-AMOLF, The Netherlands
'High resolution squared: surface analysis of cells and tissue with imaging mass spectrometry'

Dr. Christian Amatore, Université Pierre et Marie Curie
Paris, France
'Monitoring cellular communication with ultramicroelectrodes: Neurotransmission and Oxidative Stress'

10TH SWISS SNOW SYMPOSIUM, FEBRUARY 12–14, 2012

The Swiss Young Chemists' Association organizes a symposium especially for PhD candidates, Post-Docs and chemists from industry with the intention of strengthening the relationship between young chemists. The Symposium takes place in Lenk im Simmental.

- The program contains
- Invited Lectures
 - Short talks
 - Discussion tables
 - Poster sessions and
 - a lot of possibilities to network and enjoy the beautiful environment of the Berner Oberland
